acted with them either to admit have entered into one, without demanding my authority, or aware that I had come up to

2. On my arrival in the harbour I was informed that the Imaun of Muscat had been there that day on a visit to Colonel Hemmett, and had returned in the afternoon to Durakoo, the first stage on the road to Salak, where he was to embark on his return to Muscat.

I therefore immediately wrote to Colonel Hemmett requesting him to dispatch a Messenger to His Highness, to apprise him of my arrival and ascertain whether I could overtake him. The Messenger having reached the Imaun that night, he determined to halt the next day, and sent the Shaikh of express any particular anxiety on his own account, but said he had the fullest confidence in confined my communications on explaining the whole affair. - his conviction that the removal of the troops would be followed by immediate disorders in the gulph but when I explained to him the system of watch and control which was to be maintained by the squadron on the Pirate Coast, he said that as long as this plan when any of our vessels are in sight, using on all other occasions the red Arab flag. He further stated that the whole of them wherever they have an opportunity, in breach of the article of Sir William during which the Imam expressed the worst possible opinion of the leave and returned to Bassadore.

particular in detailing this conversation of the Imam because astonishment I feel and which I take the liberty to express at the orders of the Honble the Governor whose wisdom and sagacity I myself have witnessed, and whose praises God knows I have labored much to impress upon my

I marvel much what has become of this far sighted wisdom and prudence! The imperfect agreement undertaken by Mr Bruce was made expressly subject to the approval of both States and the simple expression "I dissent" from either party, would have been sufficient for its nullification.

man of talent, and experience, and not liable to be changed with the to possess the requisite qualities, and in order to give respectability and permanency to his command, and to afford encouragement to the part of the Marine that is afloat, it occurs to the Governor in Council that he should be appointed Commodore with the same allowances as the Commodore my opinion is required before it is carried into effect.

that I much fear he could not long remain in the Persian Gulf.

allowances to Captain Faithfull being the same as those to the Commodore the latter Officer receives a Salary of 300 Rupees as Commodore, exclusive of the pay of his rank and the allowances for the bruzer

6 As in the case of the Commodore in the Gulf being stationary in these Seas, and consequently not likely to convey much treasure, I respectfully suggest for the consideration of your Honorable Board, the measure of withdrawing the 200 Rupees compensation money and allowing a Salary of 500 Rupees per Persian Gulf, thereby placing him above the other Commanders as regarding the compensation money.

2 You will perceive that in compliance with the orders conveyed in Mr Secretary Farish's letter of the 2nd Ultimo, I have modified the operation of the Marine instructions, so as I trust to preclude the chance of any attack being made on Chiefs not piratical. I may here remark that the copy of those instructions furnished to me, not being numbered in Paragraphs, some ambiguity may perhaps exist

points in question, as soon as possible, in order that a more defined system of control may be at once adopted.

4. No trial has yet been made of the efficacy of a marine force alone in suppressing piracy, nor could it be fairly judged of, as long as the moral effect produced by the presence of the Military Station here existed. This effect will now be removed and in view of it we have for the future to depend upon the increased strength and vigilance of our squadron, with the aid of a more strict control over the pirate ports. For this purpose it appears essential that the provisions respecting flags it seems expedient that the papers should be issued by the senior Officer whom I have requested to visit the ports as soon as convenient so as to save the Chief the trouble of repairing to Boston to me, a measure to which they will I understand be at all times averse. The same motive will frequently render it necessary for him to communicate directly with the Chief under my instructions, and it would seem for this purpose very desirable that there should be some particular place of rendezvous for the Commodore in the Gulf, where it could at all times be found or heard of.

extent, being ten or twelve miles wide so that our ships when they occasionally called might always change their anchorage.
I should hope the objection, if started might be removed.
Should the Honourable the Governor in Council be of opinion that any other place would be preferable, it can easily be changed.
Captain Bruce had a Native Agent at Linga whom I propose removing to Mecca, and placing at the disposal of the senior Officer of the Squadron.

I may here take that it is hardly possible to distinguish Vessels intended for war or piracy, from those intended for trade by any thing in their size, shape or build; that piracy is confined to no particular class of Vessels, but that all are equally applicable to the double purpose of commerce or war, the smallest boats being often more dangerous than the largest.

Notwithstanding all the precautions that can be adopted, it will be very difficult for us to prevent the pirates from sending as many armed men to sea as they please, since they have only to take out proclaim that this is his intention, and even if he pleases embark on board of her himself. We have no right to interfere in his quarrels, provided he do not commit piracy, but we have no security for his good conduct. If his intention be piratical it is not likely that he will subject himself to suspicion by such open proceedings, but if Vessels once get to sea with men and arms for the purposes of war, however lawful their quarrel may be, the temptation to piracy will be too great to be resisted, and the first favorable opportunity will lead to a revival of it.

think a right in conformity with the treaty, to refuse to register any Vessels which may be equipped for warlike purposes of any kind, and even to withhold a Register before granted, if the Vessel be converted to those purposes, and to prevent such Vessels from going to Sea, or stop them if found at Sea.

12 The strict enforcement of this plan would probably enable to suppress, in a great degree, all acts of hostility at Sea, and go far to the prevention of piracy, but the undefined nature of our right by the Treaty, to enforce compliance with its provisions, a measure of control of which the Treaty will admit, that I venture with much deference, to suggest the following system for the consideration of Government.

I should propose that in case of any Vessels being found at Sea without Registers, the following course should be observed

If the Vessel be of suspicious appearance, and evidently not engaged in trade, or should she have no Port-clearance, or should her Port-clearance differ widely from the actual state of the Vessel, that she should be conducted by the Cruiser back to 16 Should the vessel not be of suspicious appearance, but be evidently employed on a trading voyage, and be possessed of a regular Port Clearance, although she has no register, the Nakhdah to be warned of the danger he has incurred, but in this instance that it will not be necessary to oblige her to return to her Port, nor for the Cruiser to proceed thither immediately, but that the Officer be authorized to grant her a temporary pass for the prosecution of her voyage, to be valid only for the period, and in the course of the intended voyage which shall which may meet her; and in both cases abovementioned when 18 On the occasions of the Commanders of Cruisers landing at the Port after a temporary absence, as noticed in the 7th Paragraph of my letter to Captain Faithful, I would suggest that in the event of his finding that any Vessels

without

"الإجراءات المرتبطة بدخول مستر بروس في مفاوضات لم يُصرح بها مع أمير شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٥٩ظ] (٢١١/٦٦) without Registers, he should be authorized to remonstrate with the Shaikh and require him to account for them, and if possible to recall them. Should he find that any Vessels have sailed with Registers, but under suspicious circumstances he shall require an explanation from the Chief reporting the circumstances in both cases to the senior Officer, and also if necessary to the other Cruizers, in order that a sharp look out may be kept up for the Vessels in question, which if found are to be treated as suggested in the 15th, 16th and 17th Paragraphs.

شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦٠ و] (٢١١/٦٧)

19 Should he find any Vessels which have been registered in the Port, equipping for Sea under suspicious circumstances, he will remonstrate with the Chief, and report to the Senior Officer who may, if he sees occasion, withdraw the Register of that Port altogether. If no register has been granted for her, he will refuse to grant one, and endeavour by every means short of actual force to prevent her going to Sea until he shall have received orders from the Senior Officer.

20 In respect to Port Clearances, as they are only to be signed by the Sheikh, and

شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦٠ظ] (٢١١/٦٨)

and are written in Arabic, it will be difficult to render the check which they impose very efficacious, and I would therefore suggest as the best means of attaining the end in view, that the Commanders of Cruisers should be authorized at their discretion to require from the Shacks when they visit their Ports, Copies of all Port-clearances which they may issue; as well as to call on all Vessels at sea to produce them, and to conduct back to their Ports, after one warning all Vessels which may either be without Portclearance, or in
be

"الإجراءات المرتبطة بدخول مستر بروس في مفاوضات لم يُصرح بها مع أمير شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦١ و] (٢١١/٦٩)

be found between the original Port Clearance, and the Copy furnished by the Shakh, or when the state of the Vessel may not correspond with the Port Clearance. For this purpose I think each Cruiser ought if possible to be furnished with an Interpreter who can read Arabic.

No Vessel should be allowed to navigate without the pacificated flag, under any circumstances, and all Vessels found without it to be detained and conducted back to their Ports, even if furnished with regular papers, and not in any other respect suspicious.

But (261)

شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦١ظ] (٢١١/٧٠)

But the mere carrying the flag should not be an excuse for any of the irregularities of papers or other suspicious circumstances detailed in the foregoing Paragraphs.

22. The checks which I have here proposed will hardly be applicable to the case of the actual renewal of piracy, in which event much more strict ^{proceedings} must be adopted; but they will I trust act as a preventive, and should they fail it will then be time to pursue more decided measures.

The utmost penalty which will be incurred is sending the boat to Bushire, where all I could do is to detain the Vessel until

"الإجراءات المرتبطة بدخول مستر بروس في مفاوضات لم يُصرح بها مع أمير شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦٢و] (٢١١/٧١)

until I hear from the Chief; and should be obliged to maintain the people at the expense of Government; but I am at a loss what further course to suggest which should not involve a risk of hostilities, unless perhaps to send them to Bombay which might be very inconvenient.
23 The whole of these conditions refer of course only to the Chiefs who are parties to the treaty, but I understand there are some other maritime chiefs on the Arabian Coast who are not parties to it. I propose endeavouring to come to some understanding with them (262)

as far as possible with the state of affairs in that quarter, and I shall on my return to Boston submit to Government all the information which I can collect, together with such further suggestions as I may then be enabled to offer. It is not improbable that my views on some points may there be different from those which I have now laid before you, and that many other difficulties may occur to me, but I hope the present imperfect reference will in the meantime be sufficiently clear to enable you to procure at an early period the instructions of Government on the subject

10th Jan 1823. (Sig^y) J. Macleod Resident
From J. Macleod Esq^r Resident, to the Senior Officer commanding the H^{ble} Company's Cruizers in the Gulph of Persia (10th Jan 1823) Sir,
As you are now about to carry into effect the instructions of Government for cruising on the Pirate Coast, it becomes necessary that measures should be immediately adopted for revising and renewing the Registers to be carried by the Vessels of the Maritime States who

شيران المجلد ٢" [٢٦٤ظ] (٢١١/٧٦) whom parties to the treaty negotiated by Sir William Grant Keir.

2 You will on the first instance have the goodness to specify what size and description of Vessels you consider it necessary and practicable to register, and it will be intimated to the different Chiefs that the Registers of all such Vessels must be immediately renewed, but that smaller boats are not required to be registered.

3 I would recommend that the Officers stationed to cruise off the Pirate Ports, should each be entrusted with the particular charge of a certain number

"الإجراءات المرتبطة بدخول مستر بروس في مفاوضات لم يُصرح بها مع أمير شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦٥و] (٢١١/٧٧)

شيرانز المجلد ٢" [٢٦٥ظ] (٢١١/٧٨) inspect the boats in person, and compare them with the Shark's List, writing a description in English of each according to the usual form of the Registers which he will keep for future information, and send a copy to you. The Chief will then furnish separate Registers in Arabic, under his own seal, for such Vessels as he may wish to send to Sea during the year, which will be compared and filled up in English below, and signed by the Commanders of the Cruiser: but the Registers shall not be valid until they shall have been countersigned either

"الإجراءات المرتبطة بدخول مستر بروس في مفاوضات لم يُصرح بها مع أمير شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦٦و] (٢١١/٧٩)

شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٦٦ظ] (٢١١/٨٠)

a Register for a boat which he wishes to dispatch immediately for purposes evidently pacific, and when delay would be seriously inconvenient, the Officers on the cruizing stations may be authorized at their discretion to grant a temporary pass for the present voyage until a regular register can be procured from you or me.

When circumstances require that any of the cruising Vessels should leave her station, the Commander will take an early opportunity on his return of landing at each of the Ports, or sending out shore, to ascertain what Vessels may have supplies, and also act as interpreters when required, in the measure the Office may be authorized to employ for the time, such persons as they may require to enable them to make out the necessary bills of boats, the expense of which will be repaid on their preparing a contingent bill through you.

Reply to
Sir,

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your Despatch of the 10th of January last, submitting

Persian Consul
to the Resident;
advising of the appointment of a Commissioner in the Persian Gulf and approving the measures he proposes to adopt for restraining Piracy

been pleased to appoint Captain Faithful to the permanent command of the Marine Vessels serving in the Persian Gulph, under the circumstances notified in my letter of this date to the Superintendent of the Marine, of which I have the honor to forward a copy.

The Governor in Council trusts that the precautions now adopted, combined with a knowledge of the facility with which an expedition can at any time be sent from Bombay, will be sufficient to prevent the revival of piracy in the Gulph. He is aware of the tendency

شيرااز المجلد ٢" [٢٧٠و] (٢١١/٨٧) tendency of hostilities carried on between the Arabs themselves to degenerate into general plundering of all defenceless vessels, but he is apprehensive that the present state of our relations to these states affords us no ground of interference to restrain their mutual attack.

5 It is true that the 4th Article of the treaty mentions Peace among themselves as one of the alterations in the condition of the Arabs introduced by that engagement; but this appears to be rather an explanation of the intention of the flag than any distinct stipulation,

will produce no good effect and will tend to confound Ships employed in authorized hostilities, with those engaged in Piratical depredations.

I It shoud objection to imposing any restraint on the Arabs with whom we have hostilities, arises from the impossibility of exercising a similar control over other powers (as pointed out in the 25th Paragraph of your Dispatch); even in case of disputes between those Arabs themselves, such a proceeding would not be without its difficulties, as any of those Chiefs who thought himself aggrieved, would be entitled (112)

شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٧١ظ] (٢١١/٩٠) entitled to demand redress at the hands of a power which prevented his seeking it by his own means.

The nature of our connection with the Arabs who are parties to the treaty, and the expression above alluded to in the 4th Article of the treaty, will no doubt give great weight to our endeavors to prevent hostilities by means of explanation and mediation, and will even perhaps enable us to demand from each chief an explicit declaration of his intention before he goes to war with any other power in the Gulf, but when such war shall once very ignorant of its particular unconscious of the impropriety promised faithfully to abide by his engagements and furnished through the Islands to Bidder, ^{Bidder} which we found is subject to ^{Shah Bahur} ^{subject to} Bahrain, and governed by a Sheikh named Bahur bin Subran of the Tribe of Abos-aine, the whole of the other Sheikhs having quitted the place. The people seemed to know very little of the conditions of the Treaty, and had neither flag nor Register, excepting for one boat which has been procured through the Sheikh of Bahrain, however they furnished lists of the rest of their boats for Registry, and promised to abide by the Treaty which I explained, but as they are entirely subject to Bahrain, I did not think it necessary to enter very minutely on the subject.

Bahrain 25 On the 27th Jan Shaikh Abdullah bin Ahmed we reached Bahrain and landed Shaikh
Sooliman bin Ahmed at the Town of Manama, we had two interviews with Shaikh Abdulla bin Ahmed, who though the younger Brother is the manager of all affairs, we also visited the elder Brother Shaikh Sooliman at Miffa where he resides. We stayed several days, and were treated with hospitality.

26 In addition to those points of my instructions which more particularly refer to Bahrain

شيراز المجلد ٢" [٢٨٨ ظ] (٢١١/١٢٤)

Bahrain, I fully explained to Shaikh Abdulla bin Ahmed, the arrangements that had been made for cruising off the Pirate Ports, that the conduct of himself and his subjects had been such as to render such measures of precautions unnecessary in regard to his Ports, but that our Ships would occasionally visit the Island, and that an officer would be sent for the purpose of revising the Registers, and would bring them to me or the Senior officer for signature.
I called his attention to the necessity of observing the strictest conformity to the articles of the Treaty, as well at Bahrain, as at his other subordinate subordinate Ports and particularly at Bidda, where its conditions did not seem to be known. He promised that they should be most carefully observed wherever his power extended adding that Bidda was the only Port from which trading vessels sailed.

Dispute with 24
Rama bin
Sauber

My chief difficulty was respecting the dispute with Rama bin Sauber, and I am sorry to say that my endeavours to effect an adjustment have hitherto been of no avail. This affair however will form the subject of a future letter.

Capture of 28.

The Shaikh informed me that a Bark belonging to no one of his Subjects has been captured by His Majesty's Ship Sophie, in consequence of having seized a Boat from Bushire in Bassora river, on account of a claim which the owner of a Battile has against the Shahk of Bushire. He declared his entire disavowal and disapprobation of the act, and justified himself by saying that he had expressly warned the owner of the Boat not to retaliate on any Bushire ships which he might meet with. I informed him that until I was made fully acquainted with the circumstances, I could not judge of the merits of the case

with him, but has abetted Rana bin Saheb in his unprovoked aggressions on his People, although it was only at the Imams entreaty, that he admitted that Chief who was the ancient enemy of his Family to terms of peace, he at the same time possessed the utmost contempt for the Imam, as well as for the Shaikh of Bushire, and the Persians in general as enemies, and declared that the Whookees were both able and willing to revenge themselves on the whole of them but for their forcible engagements with us.

Observing that he promises to abide by their amiable engagements, indeed the whole of the Shaikhs of the Coast, profess their determination to avoid every act which could lead to an infringement of their present friendship with the English. I made small presents to them all with which they seemed gratified.

32. On our voyage back to Bushire, I took the opportunity of violent and continued contrary winds to visit Congow & reached this place on the 21th

33. Having thus detailed my proceedings in execution of ^{general} remarks the orders of Government, I beg

and from other sources of information I am strongly inclined to suspect that his offences against us may have been somewhat exaggerated, whatever his conduct in other respects may have been; he is a turbulent and ambitious man, and was driven to desperation partly by the effects of his own misconduct and partly by the power of his enemies. a rooted enmity has always existed between this family and that of the Imam of Muscat, who himself bears the most rancorous hatred towards him. Lothman bin Suggur has opposed the Imam's views both by sea and land, and His Highness through whose representation us that I think his alleged — treachery towards the Imams of Muscat, if true may perhaps may be palliated by the conduct of His Highness to him since there is reason to suspect that the Imam only espoused his cause, in order to make him subservient to his own views on Razulthyana, and I have heard that some of the distinct acts of Piracy on English vessels which have lately been charged on Saifan bin Suggur, were not committed at his instigation altho he may have been obliged to wink at their commission by his dependents.

for the interest of his Highness himself, and for the safety of the Gulf, that he should if possible avoid a rupture with this Chief, but such are the effects of an ancient ~~feud~~ ^{feud}, inflamed by more recent personal animosities on both sides, that it is not to be expected they will refrain from hostilities, and I fear His Highness is inclined to foment dissension amongst the tribes against Sooban.

38. Shaikh Raschid bin Harmaid of Igmann is, as noticed in the 8th Para of this letter at war with Sooban bin Suggur. The eshensible cause is

as the superior of all the Tribes on the Coast from Rump to Karga excepting at Ejinaw; this supremacy is of a very indefinite description, and is in fact little more than nominal, since Sooltan bin Sagger has certainly very little direct authority over them, and is unable to control their actions, indeed I doubt if the power of any Shaikh is absolute even in his own tribe. The Chiefs are elected by their own Tribes, but Sooltan bin Sagger seems to have some power in influencing their choice although he can not impose a Shaikh upon them against their will, they seem in fact to be independent in respect

seems to be of little avail, since one of the Chiefs has already disclaimed it, and the rest seem to be scarcely even nominally bound by it, and I never even heard of its existence until I had reached Sharga 40 Sultan bin Suggur is ambitious of reducing the tribes to complete and absolute subjection, and as he is considered invulnerable for the whole of the Coast, it is impossible for us to recognize his authority, any farther than it is obeyed by the other Chiefs nor can we lend the influence of our name in any way to aid his views, at

who would otherwise be quarrelling and committing Piracies amongst of themselves, and supposing the worst possible case, that he employed the whole power of the Coast in Piracy, the evil would be still not greater than the individual piracy of each Chief, and the remedy would be easier, since this very power would make him more tangible, give him more to lose & therefore more he dread from our vengeance, whilst it would enable us more easily by the punishment of the head, to ^{reduce} render the Members its subjection. In the opposite case the advantages of his power are manifest.

the land, it would certainly be better that he should not, but at the same time the reasons he pleads are specious and natural, and I am not certain that the work he proposes would at all strengthen the place or protect its shipping against an attack from the sea, which is the quarter from which operations ought to be carried on, a Wall on the land side only open to the Town and so constructed as not to defend by its flanks the approach by the Creek or along shore, would be much less mischievous than the strong houses of the Chaitks.
The great danger would be the precedent which would be followed up by others and probably by Sultan bin Suggur himself at the new season of Rasulkhyma. I cannot therefore recommend a compliance with his desire, but I request to be favored with the instructions of Government on the subject.

At Sultan bin Suggur possesses a great many very fine naval vessels, probably at least thirty strength of the Sampans capable of containing from 50 to 100 men, he is building a large Bughla of about 120 tons for the purpose it is said of trading to India. The other Chiefs have very few boats, beyond those employed for fishing probably none (299)

none of them has more than three or four I shall however reserve a more particular account of the naval strength of the Sawassmees until I shall have received returns of the Registers from the senior officer of the Marine. I may however remark that Sultan bin Suggur must I think have contrived to scrape almost all his boats at the time of the last expedition, since it is scarcely possible that so many fine large vessels could have been built by him in so short a time as three years.

disorders which have already been also it would appear that the parties have so far been reconciled that Sonraam bin has left Bussa and retired to the protection of another branch a wandering Chief, and has no fixed the subject and friend of the Sheikh of Sheikh Mahomed against that Chief.

He gained his livelihood by fishing and piracy, and latterly resided chiefly at Bidda. In November last he proceeded to Muscat, when he received some presents from the Imam, &c. since his return he has I hear gone to establish himself in the Island of Suw Beni Yas, which is the southernmost of the group lately discovered, and is described by Captain Gubb in his report accompanied by his Friend and relation and possess one fine Battle and about 50 Fishing boats

48 The particulars respecting Sanidan, I did not learn till after my arrival at Bidder, and Bahrain otherwise I should have made a point of finding him out, I am also informed that it is very doubtful whether he will obey Shaikh Fakhroon's order, and that he is a very dangerous unsettled character ready to join in any disorder

farther than to see that he obeys all the articles of the Treaty, to which I consider him in any event a party to a certain degree, since he has been furnished with a Register, for his boat by Colonel Hewitt, but that if he commit any act of piracy we will assist to destroy him.

50 I shall at the same time request Captain to send a Cruiser to find done.

I have also written to the Imam of Muscat on the subject, and shall be guided by the answers I receive, whether to admit Souidaw formally as a party to the Treaty or not should he commit any fresh disorders, I shall probably be obliged to recommend an attack on him.

The Shaikhs of Chiefs of the Coast, the former possesses a great many Boats, but the latter very few. They were both employed with their people a few miles in land from Sharga according to their own account, attending their flocks and guarding them against the attacks of the Persians and others, who were instigated by Rasheed bin Horned to plunder them, but I suspect they were actively aiding Sooltan bin Suggur against that Chief.

53. I do not think that any danger is to apprehend from the Whoolies unless their

and the Imam of Muscat on Bahrain, should lead to disorders in that quarter. The authority however of the Shaikh does not appear to be so absolute as might be expected, and is borne with much reluctance by the Shed inhabitants of the Islands.
In fact, I am doubtful whether the Shaikh has it in his power to restrain entirely the inclinations of his subjects, to revenge themselves for the injuries they may receive from their enemies.

spend the remainder of his days, at where his son Khalifa exercises the principal control, but there appears to be some division of authority amongst several sons and servants of the Shaikhs renewed its attempts against this Island, at least I understand that Muzza Bantik Ahee has proceeded to Muscat to invite the Imam at Bunder Abbas, to arrange operations for a joint attack on Bahram, and also that letters have been forwarded to Scollar his Suggior requesting his cooperation, and offering him the Naval command of the expedition. It is not probable that a coalition of this description will take place, but the Imam may perhaps consent and Rama his Jander & together with the Shaikh of Bushire will always be ready to cooperate. If the expedition should actually be undertaken, it will inevitably lead to a renewal of disorders to a certain extent.

I am unable positively to say in what sense the words are understood by the parties to the Treaty, and my uncertainty of the views of Government prevented me from putting the question directly but when I consider the practice of all Mahomedan Nations, the positive refusal of the Imam of Muscat to relinquish this traffic and particularly the tenor of Captain Moresby's negotiations with His Highness I cannot suppose ^{that} the Arab Chiefs hold themselves bound by the Treaty not to purchase Slaves in the Market at Muscat or any where else we can never prevent. The Slaves will be disguised and concealed in a thousand ways, so that it will be impossible for us to detect them, and I doubt whether more harm than good might not be done to the cause of humanity by stopping boats and searching them for slaves, because it would in all cases occasion such disgust and offence as would involve a great risk of a renewal of hostilities as I do not believe that any of the parties to the Treaty do carry off slaves, all those they profess being purchased at Muscat and other places but at all events enforced except in very glaring cases, or at least that its sense should be considered as confined to the carrying off of slaves, and not including their purchase or transport.

١٦٣ It is gratifying treatment to humanity to know, that slaves ^{of slaves} by the Arabs are not only extremely well treated and protected by their Arab masters, but that they even enjoy a very considerable degree of power and influence, I remarked that they were every where the stoutest and best fed men, and that they seemed happy and comfortable. I must not however omit to mention submitted in my letter of the 11th January. It will be hardly possible to get the Chiefs to be very regular with their papers, but - when once the first Registry has been completed, I do not anticipate much difficulty. There is however one point on which I beg leave to solicit the instructions of Government which is the extent to which we are to interfere to prevent aggressions by Chiefs who are not parties to the Treaty, or Rebels bearing our Registers you will perceive from the 1st Part of my letter, that Aslan bin Suggur construes the latter part of the 4th article of the Treaty

Interference & prohibitions implied by the 4th article of the Treaty

Treaty, into an engagement of protection on our part. The Sheikh of Bahrain was also anxious to establish a similar meaning. The words are "and if any shall "attack them (viz^t the vessels of the Friendly Arabs engaged in trade) the British Government shall take notice of it.

65. The understanding which I have of the general spirit of the Treaty and of our policy in this point is that if applied to by the ^{parties} to the Treaty in respect to an aggression at sea by any other power not authorized by open war, I ought to remonstrate with the aggressor (311)

شيراز المجلد ٢" [٣١١ ظ] (٢١١/١٧٠) aggressor and endeavour to procure redress if possible. In all such matters connected with the Persian side of the Gulf, I must of course conduct the remonstrance through the Government of Persia as directed in the 18th para of my instructions. In cases of open war it will be impossible to interfere, but it is of such importance to encourage a spirit of traffic amongst the Arab Tribes, by all the protection which we can give them, that it is very desirable to prevent as far as we can any lawless aggressions from powers who are not parties to the Treaty.

be very desirable to have a of the utmost use in preserving tranquillity but the naval arrangements which Government has directed have convinced the Chiefs that we do not mean to withdraw our control and will I hope prove efficacious.

The force however is hardly sufficient when the description of vessels is considered, of five Cruizers now in the Gulf ^{three} there are stationed ^{orig.} off the Pirate Coast, and one is detained at Bupora. The Depot at Muscat is more distant than could be wished, since it requires on an average nearly thither and return to her Port.

Bahrain and the Persian Ports

The Timber is all Indian Teak, the arms are chiefly of Persian manufacture, but of the latter articles their Prizes furnish them with an abundant supply from all quarters. They possess no articles of export, since their pearls are generally purchased by Merchants on the spot and the produce of their Country is not even sufficient for their maintenance. Their only employment is catching fish, diving for Pearls, and importing dates and grain and other necessities of life which they purchase with the price of their Pearls.

Their dates are chiefly brought from Bahrain and Bussora, grain and cloth from Muscat and the Persian Ports, they appear to be very poor and I should fear that they can never find much employment in commerce unless in carrying for others, but I believe they at one time pursued a very extensive trade, and it is to be hoped their resources may again improve.

7/4 In conclusion I beg leave to express my opinion, that the Arab Chiefs have at general present every disposition to respect disposition of the Chiefs their relations with us, and altho I am not sanguine enough to expect entire tranquillity, yet I think that as long as they are treated with conciliation and firmness, they will not molest our vessels even if they should neighbours in the Gulf we ought to encourage them as much as possible to embark in commerce, and endeavour to bring them to more peaceful habits by affording them all the protection in our power and at the same time asserting our right to maintain the peace of the Sea, but their poverty their habits of rapine and the feuds which seem inherent in the Arab tribes, are such obstacles that we can not expect any sudden or entire reform, nor can we look to any other motive may tend to exasperate them will again embroil us with to be dreaded, as the ambition of the latter Chief, or the quarrels amongst the tribes themselves.

countenancing other disorderly on this head may prove unfounded and I have the highest opinion
